"ACCEPTED AND WILL APPEAR."

One evening whi'e reclicing In my casy chair, repining lack of true religion, and the mon sense,
A solemn-visaged lady,
Who was surely on the shady Side of thirty, entered proudly and to

"I sent a poem here, sir," Fald the lady, grawing hereer,
is subject which i'd chosen, you rememb,
, was girring.
But althouth I've youred your paper,
Sir, by surlight, as and taper,
sovered of that boem you so believy thing.

She was muscular and wiry, And her temper sure was flery, knew to pacify her I would have fun.

So I told her that her verses.

Which were great, hid count to-bless We'd received just sixty-one on "Spring," of we'd printed one.

And I added, we've decided That they'd better be divided ug the years that follow—one to each spring.

Handsome Women.

Said a lady not long since: give up everything I have if I only pos-sessed physical beauty." And the cry, for it was, came from the genuine impulse of the heart. It was caused by a retrospective survey of a disappointed life. The woman is not handsome, she is not mar ied, and she has passed that time in life which demarks young women from "old maids." But she has as much culture, as much refinement, intellectual companionability, and tender womanliness as any one you will meet. She is independent, financially, having an honorable business of her own building—which is more than half the men in life can say for themselves—and you would suppose that, excepting a husband, she had all that is necessary to make life at least happy. But she has failed to attract men; she has not attained what is the legitimate aspiration of every heart, masculine or feminine, and she would exchange all that she has in life for that which she thinks would render her attractive to the opposite sex; not der her attractive to the opposite sex; not so much, perhaps, for the sake of marriage as for the sake of their attention and com-as for the sake of their attention and com-panionship.

There is a good deal of justice in her deduction, but it is not wholly sound.

Handsome women do have many advan-tages in life over homely ones, but not so many as she thinks, and there is in the actual facts much consolation for homely women.

shose faces are so modest that it is a deasure to look at them, have the advannge in the beginning of an acquaintance, nd they have the constant advantage in large social gatherings, like a ball, in that heir faces attract notice. It is a magnifi-cent thing to be beautiful, and women hemselves are probably as susceptible of he charms of female beauty as men are.

cent thing to be beautiful, and women themselves are probably as susceptible of the charms of female beauty as men are. Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe somewhere lets out the secret that many a homely girl has laid her head on the pillow at night and cried herself to sleep because she was not pretty. And there is genuine cause for regret that there is not some better means of compensation.

A beautiful woman almost always has a crowd of gentlemen hovering about her in social gatherings, soliciting her smiles. Strangers eagerly seek to be presented to ber. Her acquaintances are proud of her, and proud to be counted as her friends. There is that inexplicable charm of symmetry which dazzles and draws at the first glance, always acting to increase her regit into of admirers. The strong feature of it is that it is apparent to the glance, and acts from the first moment of sight; whereas time is required to discover the possibly superior mental and other endowners aments of her plainer sister.

But, after all, the advantage is only temporary. It is like the college diploma handed to a boy, useful to give him a start in life, but entirely useless, in the absence of his own ability, to keep him going. Probably no pangs are so keen as those of a beautiful woman, destitute of other attractive qualities, at seeing her gentleman if riends forever brief in their acquaintance, sipping but a week or a month the honey of her looks, and then quietly leaving her.

The three charges are through their ears.

It is better to do the idlest thing in the world than to sit idle for half an hour.

This hetter to do the idlest two blows our of the world than to sit idle for half an hour.

It is better to do the idlest two old than to sit idle for half an hour.

The world than to sit idle for half an hour.

It is better to do the idlest two old than to sit idle for half an hour.

The world to express nature or philosophy. What a dread of death must some have who would rather be dying than dead.

An must be initiated in the mysteries of iniquity needs from a wife than purely domestic ones. The husband must have a person who is capable of understanding him, as well as being herself understood; who can at least sympathize with his aspirations if the can not share them; and who has inshe can not share them; and who has in-tellect enough to appreciate what he has, even if she have no desire to equal it. Especially is this last needful to a man whose tastes and aspirations are at all in-tellectual. The wife of such a man must be sufficiently a judge of intelligence to knew that if her husband does not attain financial success in life he has at least deter Scriptur. De Bible say. 'Open yo' knew that if her husband does not attain financial success in life he has at least deserved it, and is fully worthy of respect from her. For if, in addition to the slight of the world, there come the unsympathetic coldness and contempt of his own home, into what pit will he have fallen?

It is a trite but a thorough maxim, "Beauty is but skin deep." That is a strange mental change which comes over a man when he realizes it. Beauty has been to him, probably, the all-in-all, and he has cared for no feminine character which did not possess it. But after he has satiated and cloyed his taste with beauty which had nothing else, and found that while dessert is all very well, it will not do for a steady diet, he recoils on himself and performs a sort of mental summer-lation. It has proven itself to be the beat blood purifier ever discovered wells.

been to nim, probably, the all-in-all, and he has cared for no feminine character which did not possess it. But after he has satiated and cloyed his taste with beauty which had nothing else, and found that while dessert is all very well, it will not do for a steady diet, he recoils on himself and performs a sort of mental summersault. Life is a serious business, and there is a good deal of it, and when it comes to the crisis of taking a wife, the average man will not allow beauty unadorned with mind, to weigh too much.

One trouble with social life in this vicinity is the lake winds and the climate generally. They ruin complexions, and make physical heauty so searce that it is in high demand. It does not feel the necessity of adding any other accomplishment; and this is perhaps the reason why so few handsome women have any other listinctive positive qualification. A little healthy competition would be a good thing for society.—Chicago Es.

Spocks—The market was extremely irregu-ar carly in the day. At the opening there was a fractional decline, but this was quickly followed by an advance of 34a126 per cent; subsequently the improvement was lost, a decline of $\mathbb{Z}_a^2$ per cent taking place, but during the afternoon a buoyant tone prevailed, and upon large purchases for both long and short account, there was an advance of $\mathbb{Z}_a^2$ $\mathbb{X}_a^2$ per cent, the latter chicago, $\mathbb{Z}_a^2$ $\mathbb{Z}_a^2$ to $44\frac{1}{3}$; closing, however, at $43\frac{1}{3}$. Kansas and Texas, the coal stocks, the Grangers, Frie and Vauderbilt shares were conspicuous in the improvement. Louisville and Nashville sold down to 106 egainst $113\frac{1}{3}$ at the close last night, but later railled to 109\frac{1}{3}$. Kansas Pacific fell off 7 per cent and re overed 3 per cent. Nashville. Chattanooga and $\mathbb{Z}_a^2$ to losed at $1\frac{1}{3}$. Marietta and Cincinnati first preferred, steady at $10\frac{1}{3}$ at which price inside parties began buying and railled it to 15.

The meeting of the $\mathbb{Z}_a$ to the Pacific coast extension, which was called for to-day, has been adjourned until to-norrow. The freight traille of the road has increased so rapidly of late that 70 new cars and 12 locomotives have been ordered to be ready in May next. The road is now in full counc ction with the Archison and Topeka at Sevey. The early decline in Kansas and Pacific was due to the statements published about the consolidation to the effect that Union Pacific stick was to be exchanged for Kansas and Pacific stock, with no increase in the share capital. The drop in Louisville and Nashville and Chattanooga to woldered ibsequently the improvement was decline of £a2 per cent taking place, alsounted anything the "lightning calculator" ever did. There was no machine work about it, which indicated that Miss Hunter had perfected a method for teaching that branch of mathematics.

The real boom, however, was reserved to the last. It was generally understood that Prof. Luckey's grammar reform would come up for discussion, consequently a number of the Principals came prepared to do vigorous work on their favorite sides. The proposition is to eliminate technical, grammar, from the list of studies upon which pupils are examined preparatory to entering the High School, and depend upon the manuscript prepared on other subjects as a test of their practical knowledge of this branch. Several of the Principals strongly oppose the plan, feeling, probably, that it is not treating Messrs. Murray, Kirkham, Pineo and others just from the text books, such as "modes," "tenses," "conjugations," "declensions," at 13a1 of prepared to grammar, was strongly combatted by some of the foremost educators in the land.

The old educational doctrine that accuracy and facility in the use of language, written or spoken, are secured by the study of grammar, was strongly combatted by the friends of the reform. They argued that the facts and common sense, were against it, citing the testimony of business men, and others who have been well educated, that much of what they learned at school was of no use to them, and much which they studied had to be learned over when they attempted to put it into practice.

Among those, who took an active part in the discussion were Professors Jilson and Allen, of the High School, Superintendent in the discussion were Professors Jilson and Allen, of the High School, Superintendent in the discussion were Professors Jilson and Allen, of the High School, Superintendent in the discussion were Professors Jilson and Allen, of the High School, Superintendent in the discussion were Professors Jilson and Allen, of the High School, Superintendent in the discussion were Professors Jilson and Allen, of the High Sc and has cured many hopeless cases of consumption.

Oxe peculiar characteristic of Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is its power of decomposing the food in the stomach, rendering digestion and assimilation more perfect. This partly accounts for the rapidity with which patients take on flesh while using the article.

My mother was a great sufferer from Asthma Cough. Her symptoms became very alarming: attended by several physicians without finding any permanent relief; she did not sleep fifteen minutes a night for three months, from constant coughing and shortness of breath. I was recommended to try "Dr. Swayne's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry," from which she experienced immediate relief, and in a short time restored her to good health. Be it known to the good people of Ohio county and vicinity, that we, the undersigned, keep for sale at our drug stores in Wheeling, W. Va., that old established and reliable remedy, Wislar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, and knowing that its great popularity is the natural result of honest merit alone, and not on account of wide-spread advertisements, we do most cordially recommend it as one of the very best remedies known for the cure of Coids, Coughs, Consumption, Asthma and all Lung diseases. Wistar's Balsam is put up in large pint bottles, and the price is $1.00. "A word to the wise is sufficient." If you continue to suffer and die, it is your own fault, for it has saved the lives of many and never fails to immediately relieve all soreness of the throat and lungs.
